NO WINE NO WORK
STRIKE HOLDS UP
VOYAGE OF LINER

Captain of Chicago Had to Anchor Ship, and Charter Tug to Get 25 Barrels.

The French liner Chicago docked at Pier No. 84 this morning with 222 cabin passengers and what remained of twenty-five barrels of wine which the captain was forced to buy for the crew after the men had delivered an ultimatum, "No wine no work," and had delayed the ship's departure by a strike.

The "wine strike" was only one of the troubles that held up the Chicago for eight days. She was scheduled to sail from Bordeaux July 10. A walk-out of longshoremen caused a three days' delay and then the crew announced that as July 14 was Bastille Day they wanted to go ashore and celebrate. Capt. M. E. Roberts granted this permission to about 200, who continued their celebration over the French national holiday and for two days more.

On July 17 the Chicago finally got under way. She had proceeded down the Gironde River about forty miles when the crew discovered that the wine on board wasn't to their liking. They refused to work until they got the sort they wanted. Accordingly the liner was anchored in the stream and the captain was compelled to charter a tug, which went back to Bordeaux and returned with twenty-five barrels of red and white wine. That appeased the sailors and the voyage began on July 18.

Capt. Theodore Crane, who gave his address as the Princeton Club, brought back a French bride from Bordeaux. Other officers on board included Major William C. Whitaker, No. 1 Livingston Avenue, Yonkers; Lieut. Robert R. Lockwood, No. 18 Broadway, and Lieut. William Thompson, No. 418 92d Street.

Lieut. Thompson has been embarking officer at Bordeaux since the signing of the armistice. While there, he said, he had assigned more than 1,000 war brides to ships bound for America. Most of them were married to Western men, he said, and many others to soldiers of foreign extraction who fought with the A. E. F.

FOUR DRUG ADDICTS ESCAPE FROM BLACKWELL'S ISLAND

Flee Hospital, Steal a Rowboat, and Reach Manhattan—Not Yet Caught.

Four self-confessed drug addicts, prisoners in the Blackwell's Island Hospital, appropriated a row boat last night and escaped to Manhattan. The escape was discovered almost immediately, but the mist on the river made pursuit difficult, and the men have not been recaptured.

Commissioner of Charities Coler said he had asked the police some time ago to detail a special guard at the hospital to handle just such cases. The guard was stationed there at 8 o'clock this morning. It is believed that the prisoners learned of this in advance and feared they might get more of the drug cure than they really wanted.

The prisoners were John Pranzo, thirty-four, of No. 440 Courtlandt Avenue, Bronx; Tony Pantella, twenty-three, of No. 311 Courtlandt Avenue, Bronx; Edward Corbett, twenty-five, of No. 750 Melrose Avenue, Bronx, and John Murphy, twenty-two, of No. 249 East 16th Street.

NEW YORKER TRIES TO DIE.

Jumps Off Boat at Yacht Club in Greenwich, Conn.

GREENWICH, Conn., July 29.—Emil Vysta of New York City attempted to commit suicide this morning by jumping off the main float at the Indian Harbor Yacht Club. He was going down for third time when rescued by Lawrence Danks, employed at the club, assisted by Nathan Hickey, a launch man, and William Doren, bell boy.

"I just wanted to die," he told his rescuers. He is now in the custody of the police.
